Synopsis:

Anyone who watches sport could not fail but appreciate the immense power and synergy of a focused team of individuals. Does your business unlock this often hidden resource to its full advantage? We often find that there are weaknesses in key work teams that are causing a host of business problems. Some of the reasons might include: a lack of appreciation of colleagues' strengths, personal conflicts, unhelpful attitudes, lack of focus on the team objective or even a lack of trust of another team member. One of the critical success factors in any business is to maximise the effectiveness of each individual and every work team. This workshop will help you explore the best ways to uplift team performance through gaining a better understanding of how different people operate in the team environment.
